

EWOR is looking for an intern to assist the CEO for 6 months after which they have the chance to become Operations Director. For this position, you should be interested in eventually taking on the operational leadership of the venture and be comfortable with assuming ample responsibility from the beginning on.

Personality fit

- comfortable with independent working and taking on responsibility
- interested in startups, education and venture capital
- good in making quick but educated decisions
- outspoken, determined, and at least situationally extroverted
- high adaptability

Experience required

- exceptional sales and organizing skills
- work experience
- nice-to-have: experience in leading a team

Role description

- product management
- event organisation
- preparation and conduction of application cycles
- assisting the CEO in his daily operations

On EWOR

EWOR is a European EdTech venture. EWOR has three functions: 1) A venture program which supports Europe's leading aspiring entrepreneurs through cutting-edge education and access to unicorn founders and top-level CEOs, 2) an education platform, which it licenses to other businesses and venture capitalists, and 3) an AI-product which modularizes, orders and displays educational web-content based on personal preferences.

EWOR is a young company, which has been operated part-time by its team-members. After having reached product-market-fit in 2020, EWOR plans to scale substantially as of the beginning of 2021.

Contact & Application

Apply via ewor.io/jobs or by sending your CV and motivation for applying to daniel@ewor.io. We consider applications in German and English.

EWOR is looking for an intern to assist in daily operations of the venture. For this position, you should be comfortable with assuming ample responsibility and working independently.

Personality fit

- comfortable with independent working and taking on responsibility
- interested in startups, education and venture capital
- outspoken, determined, and at least situationally extroverted
- affinity to and knowledge of European venture ecosystem

Experience required

- sales
- design
- copywriting

Role description

- sales of 'EWOR licensing'
- managing social media activities
- preparation and conduction of application cycles
- managing, adjusting and improving the education platform
- assisting the CEO in his daily operations

On EWOR

EWOR is a European EdTech venture. EWOR has three functions: 1) A venture program which supports Europe's leading aspiring entrepreneurs through cutting-edge education and access to unicorn founders and top-level CEOs, 2) an education platform, which it licenses to other businesses and venture capitalists, and 3) an AI-product which modularizes, orders and displays educational web-content based on personal preferences.

EWOR is a young company, which has been operated part-time by its team-members. After having reached product-market-fit in 2020, EWOR plans to scale substantially as of the beginning of 2021.

Contact & Application

Apply via ewor.io/jobs or by sending your CV and motivation for applying to daniel@ewor.io. We consider applications in German and English.

Some of Our Mentors & Co-Creators

The EWOR concept was conceived and developed in collaboration with senior leaders such as unicorn founders, Billion-Dollar CEOs and reputable academics

Mattias Bergström

Mattias is a serial entrepreneur, who founded two ventures which IPO'd at a valuation of over $ 1 BN. He owns over 60 patents, many of which he has sold to renowned corporations.

Chris Coleridge

Chris has founded the MSt in Entrepreneurship at University of Cambridge. He is an entrepreneur himself and started Europe's first tech entrepreneurship programme at University College London.

Alexander Grots

Alex is 'one of Europe's most creative minds. He is a supervisory board member of Audi, has founded ProGlove, which counts several hundred employees and led Europe's biggest Design Thinking firm.

Daniel Marasch

Daniel has been member of the international board of Lidl (North and South Europe & USA) as well as CEO of Lidl Germany and Italy. He is furthermore chairman of the advisory board of Saggart Onemiotree.

EWOR is also designed by young leaders who understand the world's current workings and built incredible companies themselves.

Omar Bawa

Omar has raised over USD 20MM with his venture Goodwall, a professional development community for students.

Pascal Weinberger

Pascal has founded ventures since he is 13, one of which he sold by the age of 17. He recently raised 8-figure amounts for his newest venture in New York. Forbes calls him an AI prodigy.

Björn Schmidtke

Björn has founded over 7 companies to date. From web agencies in Switzerland to non-profit coding academies in Paraguay, Björn has seen it all.

Daniel Dippold

Daniel has founded three ventures to date and has been named Top Talent under 25 in Germany, Austria and Switzerland. He is president of Kairos Europe, which supports the world's most impactful ventures.